5-14-2015 The hammer attacks the police were investigating occurred in a burst of six hours on Monday. The first took place around 1:45 p.m. near 35th Street and Avenue of the Americas, the police said. The assailant struck a man with a hammer as he crossed the street. About an hour and a half later, he struck a woman near Madison Square Park. Around 7:30 p.m., a 28-year-old woman was sitting on a bench in Union Square Park when a man approached her. The man pulled a hammer from his bag and struck her on the head. About 10 minutes later, the man approached a 33-year-old woman walking on West 17th Street. He came up from behind her and struck her on the head.

5-14-2015 "Police Shoot Hammer-Wielding Man Sought in 4 Manhattan Attacks" By J. DAVID GOODMAN and AL BAKER if David + Al had passed the Hemingway House Writing Class they would have been able to write that the next "OJ" hammer attacker will be "Shot" 1,001 times faster and put in several invention projects the police at HQ can click on to get this invention into action.

5-14-2015 Every officer at every roll call had seen a photo of the wanted man, a 30-year-old drifter with a history of arrests and severe mental illness. They hoped to catch him before another attack. On Wednesday, two officers spotted the man in Midtown. He could be the hammer attacker, but they wanted to speak with him to be sure. The man, identified by the police as David Baril, saw them, too. He stopped at the corner of Eighth Avenue and 37th Street, and as the officers closed in, he pulled a hammer, red with the dried blood of previous attacks, police officials said. He began swinging wildly at one of the officers, Lauren O'Rourke, 27, striking her as she backpedaled, the police said. The scene on Eighth Avenue between 37th and 39th Streets in Midtown, near where an officer shot a hammer-wielding man. Crime Scene: A Police Shooting in Midtown's Seedier Side As they spilled into the intersection and a beam of late-morning sunlight, her partner, Officer Geraldo Casaigne, drew his gun and fired four times, hitting Mr. Baril in the right arm, the torso and the "head area," officials said. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital Center, where he was in critical condition

5-14-2015 Amtrak Train 1,009 MPH... For the second time in two years, a passenger train traveling well above its speed limit has derailed, leaving a trail of death and injuries. And for the second time, existing technology that might have prevented the accident was missing. Amtrak has installed the technology, known as positive train control, on parts of its rail network in the Northeast Corridor. But the technology, designed to automatically slow or stop a train to prevent accidents...

5-14-2015 "The $179 Million Picasso That Explains Global Inequality" Neil Irwin NY Times We don't yet know who agreed to pay $179.4 million for a Picasso in an auction Monday night — or where the money came from, or what motivated that person or persons to spend more than anyone has before for a single piece of art at auction. But this much we do know: The astronomical rise in prices for the most-sought-after works of art over the last generation is in large part the story of rising global inequality... Let's assume, for a minute, that no one would spend more than 1 percent of his total net worth on a single painting. By that reckoning, the buyer of Picasso's 1955 "Les Femmes d'Alger (Version O)" would need to have at least $17.9 billion in total wealth. That would imply, based on the Forbes Billionaires list, that there are exactly 50 plausible buyers of the painting worldwide. This is meant to be illustrative, not literal. Some people are willing to spend more than 1 percent of their wealth on a painting; the casino magnate Steve Wynn told Bloomberg he bid $125 million on the Picasso this week, which amounts to 3.7 percent of his estimated net worth. The Forbes list may also have inaccuracies or be missing ultra-wealthy families that have succeeded in keeping their holdings secret.

5-14-2015 "Key West Police mentors helping at-risk high school students" BY Michael Quirk Key West Citizen If you drive by Key West High School and notice a number of police cruisers parked outside, you may think there is a problem. Instead, what you're seeing is a series of problems going away, as local law enforcement officers assist at-risk youth as part of the police mentors program. Started by Keys To Be The Change group, with help from the Key West Police Department and the city commission, the program is in its second year. At-risk students are chosen by administrators, then the names are given to KTBTC director Heidi Golightly. She interviews the kids and asks if they want to take part. A student is "at-risk" if he or she misses more than six classes in a semester and fails at least one class.

5-13-2015 Wednesday 8 am Key West Island Time, this is not the Time measured in the Sand in the Universe Hour Glass. Greg is at Starbucks for the xxx time since Feb. 2, 2014 when I got evicted. Then I bought the 1999 Ford Escort turned it into a 2015 Electric Windmill Ford Escort with the 1 Trillionth one coming off the assembly line today, grin. Well I slept in my 1999 Ford Escort for 1 year 2 months 10 days and got a ticket. In Key West they make their own rules + laws as this is a "Orwellian" no sleeping in your car law. So I went to court. Judge Miller found I was hard of hearing grin and got 15 hours community service I will serve today at 11 am so only have 2 hours to write my web today at Starbucks on Duval Key West. Going to the Catholic Soup Kitchen to work from 11 to 6 then get in the rest of the 15 hours tomorrow I hope. Have to go back to Judge Miller on June 5, 2015 if the Observers don't make contact by then. Hospice in Key West I called them 10 times about community service work as I was a CNA and they never called back... wow. I called the Animal Shelter ok no contact with dogs or cats just raking the yard. I moved in with a 13 year old crazy cat who bits flees ticks 100 times a day, I touch one spot and it was her spine. The guy had no idea told me to take her to the vet for $100 ha... I will have to search goggle or wait for the 1984 II Cat Women to help. Grin.
