Sense of Alienation a trillion times via Polygamous Marriage Headlines in the NY Times, a marriage to get 1,001 Nobels a year in Medicine!! Not a Moslem Polygamous Marriage were women don't drive a 2015 Electric Windmill Ford Escort to Los Alamos for a supercomputer wedding night! ...unsolved mysteries of subatomic physics is that of confinement - why quarks, gluons and so forth are only ever found within other subatomic particles like protons, and not by themselves... Electrons, Protons, Neutrons in breast cancer cells takes state of the Arts a trillion times faster than the speed of light... 4 Trillion Years, Proxima is what is known as a "flare star", meaning that convection processes within the star's body make it prone to random and dramatic changes in brightness. The convection processes not only trigger brilliant bursts of starlight but, combined with other factors, mean that Proxima Centauri is in for a very long life. Astronomers predict that this star will remain middle-aged - or a "main sequence" star in astronomical terms - for another four trillion years, some 300 times the age of the current Universe. Alienation of Wars On Earth Alienate this Universe we live in. 92 Trillion Year Old Universe was killed by MIT War Toys yet MIT keeps its Status Quo by building War Toys, Drones not Hubble III Space Stations and 10 mm Breast Tumor Scanners for Homeland Security at Airports World Wide. This is a war crime by MIT... iPhone 6 ++ "Drone" cameras on every corner to save the life of the other War...

Domestic War that will kill 19K SWF in 2015 has also been lost to MIT War Toy Scientists! Thank God Verizon will make all these recorded calls public at the War Crimes Trials after we finish off BP Oil!

taxi changing lanes on the freeway, the taxi was not a laser guided state of the arts 2015 Electric Windmill Ford Escort so our 1984 II Numb Nut Dictators are the ones who really killed this couple and millions of others in traffic accidents in 2015. After receiving his doctorate at Princeton, Dr. Nash served as a consultant to the RAND Corporation and as an instructor at M.I.T. and still had a penchant for attacking problems that no one else could solve. On a dare, he developed an entirely original approach to a longstanding problem in differential geometry, showing that abstract geometric spaces called Riemannian manifolds could be squished into arbitrarily small pieces of Euclidean space. Bisexual while at RAND in the summer of 1954 he was arrested in a men's bathroom for indecent exposure. In 1957, after two years of on-and-off courtship, he married Alicia Larde, an M.I.T. physics major from an aristocratic Central American family and one of only 16 women in the class of 1955. Alicia never got MS thank God. Tracking down if any of the other RAND women wives of the Bisexual Men at RAND did was not done by this NY Times Journalists. Dr. Nash underwent electroshock therapy. For many years he roamed the Princeton campus, a lonely figure scribbling unintelligible formulas on the same blackboards in Fine Hall where he had once demonstrated startling mathematical feats. Was this caused by a MS Virus... as there are several different bisexual virus of the same name like Hepatitis A, B, C, H, K... John F. Nash Jr., Math Genius Defined by a 'Beautiful Mind,' Dies at 86 By ERICA GOODE NY Times John F. Nash Jr., a mathematician who shared a Nobel Prize in 1994 for work that greatly extended the reach and power of modern economic theory and whose long descent into severe mental illness and eventual recovery were the subject of a book and a film, both titled "A Beautiful Mind," was killed, along with his wife, in a car crash on Saturday in New Jersey. He was 86. Nash and his wife, Alicia, 82, were in a taxi on the New Jersey Turnpike in Monroe Township around 4:30 p.m. when the driver lost control while veering from the left lane to the right and hit a guardrail and another car. The couple were ejected from the cab and pronounced dead at the scene.

5-24-2015 MEMORIAL DAY FOR SWF's killed in FIERY CAR CRASH ON MEMORIAL DAY... Leishmaniasis has a long history. First century pre-Incan pottery from Ecuador and Peru carried images of the terrible skin lesions and facial deformities that are typical of the cutaneous form of the disease. And accounts from Spanish conquistadors spoke of seeing ulcers on people living in the jungles or mountains that looked like the lesions of leprosy. They called it white leprosy or Andean sickness. At the start of the 20th century it was renamed after Sir William Leishman, a British Army doctor serving in India, who first identified the parasite causing the visceral form of the disease. Dr. Leishman himself called the illness "dum dum fever" after the village where the soldier he cared for had been posted. The parasite causing leishmaniasis is transmitted by the sand fly, a tiny bloodsucking insect. The disease cannot be transmitted from person to person. The sand fly and the single-celled organism it carries are common in much of South America and Africa and affect millions of people worldwide every year. Although there have been home-grown cases of the disease in Texas and Oklahoma, the vast majority of those diagnosed with leishmaniasis in the United States contract it outside of the country and bring it home.

Various Forms of Disease The most common form of leishmaniasis manifests as a single sore at the site of the bite weeks, or sometimes months, after the bite. The lesion, although dramatic in appearance, is often painless. It will usually heal on its own but, without treatment, can linger for months or even years, allowing the lesion to grow into large, sometimes disfiguring sores that leave terrible scars when, and if, they heal. Some species of the parasite can cause a disease that spreads to the nose and mouth. Occasionally it can spread to the viscera — this form is sometimes called "kala azar" — causing even more devastating disease and sometimes death. Prompt diagnosis and treatment can limit the size of the lesion and the scar and prevent the spread to more delicate tissues. Travelers to endemic regions are encouraged to cover up as much as possible and to use high potency insect repellents on exposed areas. If significant exposure is likely, clothing can be treated with an even stronger insecticide, permethrin. Since sand flies are most active at night, sleeping with mosquito netting is recommended if not sleeping in well screened or air conditioned rooms.

How the Diagnosis Was Made When Dr. David Antonetti saw the patient and the sore on her arm, he took samples of the pus-like discharge to see if anything would grow. When nothing did, he called the patient and told her to stop taking the antibiotics he had started her on.
