5-30-2015 State of the Arts iApps + Yale Medical School can "Conquer the World of Hospitals" with Los Alamos help crunching misplaced screws in the spine... etc. Lawyer said that if the misplaced screws had been detected right away, it was possible that Mr. Beloyianis would have regained some ability to walk. "A Jury in the Bronx Awards $45 Million for a Death After Surgery" By ANEMONA HARTOCOLLIS New York Times. A Bronx jury has awarded $45.6 million to the parents of a man who was paralyzed at 14 and later died as a result of a spinal operation at New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Columbia University Medical Center, according to court papers released Friday. The man, Edward Beloyianis, who lived in Dix Hills, Long Island, had gone to the Manhattan hospital in November 2002 for surgery to correct his scoliosis, a condition that made his spine curve in an S-shape, his lawyer, Evan Torgan, said on Friday. Mr. Beloyianis was paralyzed from the waist down by four screws that had been misplaced during the surgery and were pressing on his spinal cord, Mr. Torgan argued during a six-month trial in State Supreme Court in the Bronx. Despite the paralysis, he was able to attend college and work repairing computers, but he died eight years after the surgery, at 22, of complications of the paralysis, his lawyer said. On May 27, after three days of deliberation, the jury awarded $45.6 million to Edward's parents, Michael Beloyianis and Virginia Beaton, including $40 million for his pain and suffering, according to the verdict sheet. The jury split responsibility evenly between the hospital and the surgeon, Dr. David P. Roye Jr., director of pediatric orthopedic surgery at the New York-Presbyterian Children's Hospital. The hospital said in a statement Friday that its "sympathies and thoughts continue to be with the Beloyianis family," and that the hospital would appeal, because it believes "the verdict has no basis in law or fact."

5-30-2015 New York-Presbyterian Children's Hospital should have said after the $45 Million Jury Award we Need All of Los Alamos Super Computers and Apple iApps State of the Arts Laser Guided Surgeons to Crunch taking out the "Screws" if they are not screwed in perfectly... etc.
