Craigslist's entry into a market results in a 15.9 percent increase in reported HIV cases, according to research from the University of Minnesota published in the December issue of MIS Quarterly. When mapped at the national level, more than 6,000 HIV cases annually and treatment costs estimated between $62 million and $65.3 million can be linked to the popular website. "I actually think that the creators of Craigslist had no intent of harming society. They came in with good intentions," says Jason Chan, Assistant Professor of Information and Decision Sciences at the Carlson School of Management. "At the same time, they did not anticipate that users could use the features in an unexpected way with unintended consequences." I would bet a Yale Med School Research Paper would find Facebook gave some young girls, women, STDs...

1-30-2015 Courting Women to become Greg's Wives... "Saudi King Salman Hands Out Pink Slips and Bonuses" By BEN HUBBARD NY Times A gathering at the grave of the late King Abdullah in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on Friday. The Saudi ruler died at 90 after sitting on the throne for almost 10 years. RIYADH, Saudi Arabia – Less than a week after ascending the throne, King Salman of Saudi Arabia issued an array of royal decrees on Thursday – abolishing government bodies, changing ministers, dismissing the chief of intelligence and further consolidating his own authority. And despite concern that the steep decline in oil prices would restrict the finances of the country, the world's largest oil exporter, the king also decreed a cash bonus worth two months' salary to government employees, students and pensioners, a gesture aimed at garnering good will among the citizenry. The swift and momentous changes in some of the country's most powerful posts suggested that King Salman was reformatting the domestic power structure to give himself more control. "This is some serious stuff," said F. Gregory Gause III, a professor of international relations at the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A & M University.

1-30-2015 Courting Women to become Greg's Wives... PARIS — Railway traffic on Europe's busiest commuter line came to a near standstill in Paris and its suburbs on Thursday as train drivers went on strike to protest the assault of a driver on Wednesday night. Cédric Gentil, a train driver on the A line, said that the driver assaulted Wednesday was attacked by a passenger shortly before 9 p.m. at the Torcy station, east of Paris. The train's alarm was activated when a passenger became stuck in closing doors, and the driver had to leave his operating booth to reset it, Mr. Gentil said. The attacker then head-butted the driver, breaking his nose, and fled. It is unclear whether the attacker and the passenger who was stuck are the same person. This penalizing over a million users, without appropriate procedures - CLONE of "OJ" in the USA and Homeland Security scanning at the Airport and not Publix and Whole Foods for 10mm size breast cancer tumors that would not end breast cancer but would do the best thing we can do today.
