There has long been evidence that wealthy Saudis provided support for bin Laden, the son of a Saudi construction magnate, and Al Qaeda before the 2001 attacks. Saudi Arabia had worked closely with the United States to finance Islamic militants fighting the Soviet Army in Afghanistan in the 1980s, and Al Qaeda drew its members from those militant fighters.*

Buffett to play the San Carlos -- for free BY ADAM LINHARDT Citizen Staff alinhardt@keysnews.com It's no joke. Jimmy Buffett and his Coral Reefer Band are putting on a free concert for about 200 lucky fans on April 1 at the San Carlos Institute theater, 516 Duval St. But, there's a catch. There will be no tickets for sale. Those interested in seeing the show must apply online at margaritaville.com by submitting the songs they most want to hear. Only those who apply will have a chance to win tickets to the show. Fans enter their setlists and a lottery will determine 100 first-prize winners, who will receive two tickets. A grand prize winner will receive two tickets as well as an all-expenses paid trip to Key West and backstage access to the legendary singer, and "maybe have a margarita or something" with the band, Buffett posted Monday on Facebook. "Starting Feb. 2, we will be posting a list of 100 songs, and we'll post it on the margaritaville website, then you get to pick the 27 songs that we will play on April Fool's Day, live at the historic San Carlos theater in beautiful downtown Key West on Duval Street," Buffett said. Fans can track which songs are the most popular via the website, which will also stream video of the show. "Everyone is working to make this a super event for the San Carlos, Key West and for Jimmy Buffett," said San Carlos board president Rafael Penalver. "It's going to be a big production, and we're honored to host it." Julie Waters, president of the Key West Parrothead Club, had a one word response regarding the show. "Phenomenal." For information about the concert, go to margaritaville.com. alinhardt@keysnews.com

2-4-2015 Mary's New Peripheral Awareness... We can attribute this lack of awareness, by Yale's tramonte news below... TRAMONTE: Our HIV crisis Green on the Vine, By Kyle Tramonte Kyle Tramonte is a senior in Saybrook College. His column runs on alternate Wednesdays. Contact him at kyle.tramonte@yale.edu staff columnist. In most students' minds, the HIV/AIDS crisis was an event of the past: a bleak time of public condemnation of men who have sex with men, a searing recognition of the absence of legal and human rights afforded to affected communities and, for many, a period of intense sadness and fear. Yet the belief that HIV in America is no longer a public concern couldn't be further from the truth. Kyle Tramonte Federal research shows that the nation's HIV rate fell by a third from 2001 to 2011. But, in the same 10-year time frame, new diagnoses of HIV among gay and bisexual men between the ages of 13 and 24 increased by nearly 133 percent. Why is this happening, and why aren't people paying attention?

2-4-2015 Mary's New Peripheral Awareness... We can attribute this lack of awareness, by Yale's tramonte news below... We can attribute this lack of awareness at least partially to a diminished sense of urgency surrounding the virus
