interacting with the electrical component of electromagnetic radiation. Beyond reversing the image, they also reverse light's electrical field. This presents a problem at the mirror's surface, where the opposing frequencies cancel each other out. For scientists, this means that things like quantum dots are unable to interact with light at the surface.

Well I just got up and looked at the $6 New York Times and the Yale story is about sex harassment at the Yale Medical School, a Professor. Wow, I think Kerry, Bush, and Bush and Clinton at Yale using abusing Prostitutes should have been on the front page today not the MD Professor! But the NY Times got $1 Billion in BP Oil money to write what they wanted! And live in a New 55 Story New York Times Building paid for by Mecca's $777 Trillion in $4 Gas.
