Good Friday 2014 in Jerusalem Thousands of Christian pilgrims filled the cobblestone alleyways of the Old City on Friday along the Via Dolorosa, Latin for the "Way of Suffering." Story: Francis Cardinal George holds Holy Thursday mass Photos: Good Friday 2014 in Jerusalem They are carrying wooden crosses and following the 14 stations ending at the ancient Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Tradition says the church was built on the site where Jesus was crucified, buried and resurrected. The Easter holiday and Jewish Passover coincide this year. According to the Gospels, Jesus ate his last supper - a Passover meal - hours before he was betrayed. Christians believe Jesus was crucified on Good Friday and resurrected on Easter Sunday.

4-18-14 Good Friday George Orwell Thorns... Bar Story on Front Page of the Key West Citizen is were I'm at now... grin! Last call for 'The Top' bar... BY GWEN FILOSA Citizen Staff gfilosa@keysnews.com It's last call on the seventh floor of La Concha Hotel, Key West. You don't have to go home, but after Sunday you can no longer hang out at The Top bar, a longtime sunset-watching spot with a near-panoramic view. The bar is closing down to make way for a luxury spa. Locals dismayed by the end of The Top era have organized gatherings for tonight and Saturday to bid farewell to the iconic nightspot. The bar will be open Sunday evening, hotel staff said Thursday. But the live music portion of The Top wraps up for good with a show today. Key West residents plan to hit The Top from 6 to 8 p.m. today with musician Al Subarsky scheduled to give one final performance atop the 1926-era hotel at 430 Duval St. "The view from there is unlike anywhere in Key West," said Ralph DePalma, a photographer who plans to be among the last group of patrons at The Top. "They used to have bands up there and parties." DePalma's recently published book, "The Soul of Key West, Vol. 1," contains interviews with 46 local musicians and reports that Key West is home to 51 venues with live music. "We're down to 50 now once you close The Top," DePalma said. While La Concha is a certified national historic site, the rooftop bar has only been around since the 1980s. Designs to demolish the 4,200-square-foot rooftop bar and replace it with a six-room spa were first filed with the city in April 2013. Several locals appeared at city government meetings, pleading for a reprieve for The Top. An online petition demanding the city save the bar gathered at least 1,300 signatures. But the various board members and elected leaders pointed out to the critics that the hotel's owner, Spottswood Realty, is well within its rights to close the bar. "We appreciate it," private planner Owen Trepanier said in response to the emotional protests. "The owners of this property want to move in a different direction."
