5-20-14 Apple Store in Key West or one of the 100K Observers reading this should tell Apple Software $$$$$$$$$$$$ to call City of Key West $$$$$$$$$$$$ as the PC Software for $780K is a Scam with no 1,001 Invention Projects for City Managements... preinstalled... grin! Software for city costs $780K BY GWEN FILOSA Citizen Staff gfilosa@keysnews.com

The cost of upgrading the city of Key West's financial software, which dates back to 1997, is a cool $780,252. And according to arguably the most conservative spender on the City Commission, plunking down nearly $800,000 for the upgrade is worth every penny. "When you look at the time saved in employee hours, it's not expensive," Commissioner Mark Rossi said. "In this case, it's a good reason to spend money. It brings more improved efficiency to the city." Commissioners tonight will vote on whether to accept staff's recommendation to move all existing applications to the OneSolution platform, made by SunGard One Solution a few years ago. "We have an antiquated version," Rossi said. "We've been putting Band-aids on it for awhile." The commission's 6 p.m. meeting is tonight at Old City Hall, 510 Greene St. Currently, the city still uses SunGard's AS/400 software that went live in 1997. Every department uses the software in its daily work, according to a memo from Patti Mclauchlin, the city's information technology director, to City Manager Bob Vitas. "The technology is old and has a number of weaknesses, including limited management reporting capabilities," Mclauchlin wrote. The upgrade also will greatly expand public access to Key West's financials. The new software will create an e-portal that anyone, employee or a member of the public, may use to view all of the city's public financial records. "Citizens will have the ability to search vendor payments, contract payments, receipts, etc.," Mclauchlin said. The city checked on other financial software. Tyler Software's package would cost at least $1.2 million, while New World Software's product starts at $656,000, according to a staff report. The city has $760,000 budgeted for new software, the staff report states.
