6-2014 "How an Invention Project via Greg + Wives in Key West got the 100 Day Battery invented for iPhones, MacBook Air + MacBook Pro... by ROD NORDLAN NY Times! An iOS device repair company in the UK reports third-party charging accessories are causing damage to a critical power management component in Apple's iPhone 5, rendering the handset inoperable.

6-20-14 "How an iPhone Update" Apple's iPhones now allow owners to erase data remotely, even if the devices are stolen—a feature that will never generate the excitement of GPS by CIA Trackers out to “Kill with their FBI Swat Team Buddies” who ever took your iPhone in NYC!

6-20-14 “How an iPhone Update” GPS for Stolen iPhones.... New York’s attorney general credits the iPhone’s new “kill switch” for a seemingly impossible achievement: lowering crime rates in the country’s largest city.

6-20-14 “How an iPhone Update” GPS for Stolen iPhones....

6-20-14 “How an iPhone Update” GPS for Stolen iPhones.... Apple’s introduction of the kill switch has indeed affected the market for stolen phones, says Paul Iliya of phone reseller iCracked. His company checks each of the phones it purchases against a database of stolen devices and rejects those linked to theft. In the past few months, he says, the percentage of flagged Apple devices has dropped noticeably.

6-20-14 “How an iPhone Update” GPS for Stolen iPhones.... But that doesn’t mean no one wants stolen iPhones. iCracked sells many of its phones to overseas buyers. Recently, Iliya says, some buyers have been sending the company two sets of prices—one for unlocked phones and another for those crippled by the Activation Lock. “There is still a market for them,” he says of the locked phones, “but they’re paying 60 percent to 70 percent less.” Iliya figures the locked iPhones are sold for spare parts.

6-20-14 “How an iPhone Update” GPS for Stolen iPhones.... Not always. Jay Davies, a New York photo editor (and, full disclosure, someone who attended my wedding), lost his phone in a cab in Manhattan last December. Three months later a man from Pakistan contacted him. The man had bought an iPhone for 23,500 Pakistani rupees—about $230—that was locked and displaying Davies’s e-mail address. Would Davies be kind enough to unlock the phone? “I wouldn’t ask him to eat $230, even if it’s his fault for buying a locked iPhone,” says Davies. “But I’ll be damned if I’m releasing it.”
