8-23-14 iApp... "Another Day in the Frontal Lobe" by Dr. Katrina Firlík "I felt privileged to have such insight into the extremes of human behavior... this story became my definition of human desperation!" Swallowed a pen again and again just to leave his cell and visit the people at the Hospital. At the Same Time the Pentagon voted to give Saudia Arabia + Mecca $777 Trillion and give MD's in the USA $1 Trillion in kickbacks via Medicare! He would have been on the Ford assembly line 16 hours a day building the 1 Trillionth Electric Windmill Ford Escort not in a Cell. Lobotomy Gas as Frontal Lobe Lobotomy on the Pentagon top brass even on a assembly line would take forever. Infinity of space + 777 Galaxies are never brought up at the Pentagon. Human Desperation... we are Alone in the Universe as our Highest Tech Fighter Jets are for War not Star Wars! Laser guided sidewalks and traffic are a wasted of money!

AliveCor, makers of the popular AliveCor Heart Monitor, a one lead ECG that runs on smartphones, has received FDA clearance for an automatic algorithm that can detect atrial fibrillation.

The automated analysis process, as the algorithm is called, will be integrated into the AliveECG app and made available next month. The hope is that every reading will automatically be analyzed for AFib, giving patients immediate notice and making the chart available to their cardiologists for closer review. Because AFib strikes its sufferers at random times, it can be difficult to detect it in a clinical setting. Having a device on hand that can help identify it at any time should help with diagnosis and eventual treatment of the condition.

8-23-14 iApp... "Another Day in the Frontal Lobe" by Dr. Katrina Firlík this story on brain surgery is in her book she did the same thing but not with a violin, grin.

When surgeons install deep brain neurostimulators for essential tremors, Parkinson's, or other conditions, the patient is kept awake to determine whether the electrode leads are making correct contact. This normally involves the patient performing simple tasks, but when a tremor is slight it's a challenge to notice it. Normally deep brain stimulation implants are not advised for people with relatively minor tremors, but things are different when the patient is a violinist. At the Mayo Clinic an accelerometer was attached to the bow and the patient, a professional musician, played his instrument while the grace of his movements was analyzed by the computer. This helped surgeons place the electrodes accurately and the patient is back on stage fiddling away. Here's a video report from Mayo Clinic:
