"Reducing Preventable Harm in Hospitals" By David Bornstein Each year, in the United States, millions of patients are harmed while receiving care in hospitals. They get infections, experience adverse reactions to drugs, develop dangerous bed sores, or come down with pneumonia from the very ventilators meant to help them breathe. The estimates of the number of people who die each year as a result of hospital errors have ranged from as many as 98,000 in a landmark Institute of Medicine report from 1999 to as many as 440,000 in a 2013 study.*

1-25-2016 NASA Tour by Madonna... fans know what to expect from one of her concerts: plenty of high-energy

dancing, clever thematic vignettes, impressive stage props, colorful costumes and an eclectic set list that draws from highlights throughout her entire career. Such a production demands precision, above all, with every performer having to know exactly when and where to be. There is precious little room for either improvisation or spontaneity, except for during carefully scripted moments (which kind of comically defeats the whole purpose). But on Saturday night at a packed American Airlines Arena in downtown Miami, Madonna managed to deviate from the mostly rigid set list and staged theatrics of her Rebel Heart Tour to add a heartfelt, personal touch for her onetime hometown crowd. The show - part of the global icon's 10th major tour - was in support of Madonna's 13th studio album, "Rebel Heart," and the still-spry-at-57 megastar showed off her well-documented rebellious side from the start, opening with a salacious video of her in a sequined ball gown trapped in a cage while guards who looked like they were flown in straight from the Wicked Witch of the West's castle marched on stage. Madonna then descended dramatically in a medieval-looking cage to perform her fun-loving new anthem "Bitch, I'm Madonna" while surrounded by sexed-up geisha girls. It was just one of many tracks from "Rebel Heart" that Madonna would perform on the night. Ever the musical chameleon, the Queen of Pop's new release features her most progressive sound yet, with almost half the album's tracks produced by either dubstep king Diplo or EDM superstar Avicii, and the ones that aren't are just as cutting-edge. The performances were over-the-top as well. During "Holy Water," which featured four dancers wearing nun's habits on their heads and not much else, Madonna climbed up a stripper pole and actually stood on a fellow female dancer before integrating the rap from her classic hit "Vogue" into the song. Later, during "Rebel Heart," several guys donning top hats and tails climbed 12-foot poles and swayed back and forth so severely that they could almost touch audience members, an amazing feat that any circus would covet. "Living For Love" featured Madonna as toreador, fighting off dancers wearing bullhorns with red capes, while "Body Shop" re-created a '50s-style auto mechanics store, with stacked tires and a "West Side Story" theme, after which Madonna first addressed the crowd. "We're bringing the heat to Miami - it's been a little chilly, right?" she said. "It's all about the Miami heat - that's why I used to live here. I don't know why I don't live here anymore, but that's a whole 'another story. You know, me and Miami, we go way back. I got stories you would never believe." One of the best sequences featured Madonna's beloved tune "La Isla Bonita" with her "gypsy" band, complete with accordion, acoustic guitar, castanets, bongos and flamenco-style dancing, followed by a sensual, slowed-down medley of "Dress You Up," "Into the Groove" and "Lucky Star," all powered by the same groovy bassline. Ironically, some of the biggest highlights of the night were the least-produced numbers: a sweet, romantic version of "True Blue," featuring Madonna strumming a ukulele; a very stripped-down "Like a Virgin," with just Madonna onstage, dancing alone, without even the keyboard riffs; an acoustic version of "Who's That Girl" with only Madonna and her acoustic guitar (which showed her true talent as showman); and a charming take on Edith Piaf's French classic "La vie en rose," again with Madonna on ukulele and in fine vocal form. But the real surprise of the night came when Madonna took on a true blast from the past: "I want to sing this song, and there aren't too many cities I can sing it in," she said before launching into a passionate rendition of "Don't Cry for Me Argentina," accompanied by a lone acoustic guitar player, a song from her role as Eva Peron in the film "Evita." After the cheers died down, Madonna said, "I've been dying to sing that song the entire tour - that's the first time." The fitting finale featured Madonna draped in an American flag and red top hat singing one of her early club hits, "Holiday," along with 20 or so festively dressed dancers, a feel-good ending to a decidedly feel-good show.

1-25-2016 3.75 billion years from now the Milky Way... NEW HAVEN, Conn. (WTNH) — It happens every year at this time. People start with the sniffles and before they know it they have a cold or even worse, the flu. And usually it's family members who are the culprits. Kids come home from school, parents from work ... and they spread it to each other, back & forth, a repeated pattern. Unless ... you create a "safe room." Dr. Steve Schwartz has been a family physician for more than 25 years. He decided to put together a safe-room strategy for families, after serving on a pandemic task force. It's more than just "washing your hands" and "covering your cough." Dr. Schwartz has isolation techniques that emphasize clothing, food, airflow, masks, object contact and humidification. Joining us Sunday on Good Morning Connecticut, he shares the key things every safe room must have, as well as the safe room concept itself, and being ready to create one on-the-spot.
