10-16-2015 Nightly News From Key West with Greg + Wives... 4 MD Wives Coup D'Etat Review: Apple Releases New iMac Before New iPad Pro, MacBook Air, And MacBook Pro... Those of you who want a 21.5-inch iMac with a 4K resolution display are in luck, almost as Acer's new all in one PC has a built in battery so you can carry it around the house, Apple missed this feature. Why? Some Bosses at Apple who read this web page 2 years ago decided not to put a battery in their "Desktop" computer. They should be fired of course! If someone can track them down. Same goes for Steve Jobs High School Anatomy teacher, grin! I don't think there is anything preloaded for Anatomy of Steve Jobs in the new iMac... another mistake by the Apple Bosses, grin. Steve is screaming from Hell; fire them! Save some other Steve Jobs II from cancers Hell and leak the Holocaust II going on at Saint Jude Childrens Hospital. MD Wives Coup D'Etat Review: Only 5% of Mac users at IBM need help desk support, compared to 40% of PC users, test the IBM Mac users... test them if they know where their pancreases is...ha. IBM officials said in July that they plan to deploy some 50,000 MacBooks to employees by the end of 2015. Final adoption numbers at the company are expected to be between 150,000 and 200,000 units. Apple and IBM surprised the tech world last year by announcing a partnership in enterprise solutions dubbed "IBM MobileFirst for iOS," an initiative incorporating custom software and analytics services with iOS hardware. That proved to be just the start of a growing partnership between the two former rivals, leading to this year's deployment of Macs within the IBM ranks. The companies also revealed in June their work on an experimental educational product called the Student Achievement App, which looks to provide teachers with real-time student data analytics. A prototype version of the service is slated for completion soon, with pilot programs scheduled to roll out at four schools in 2016. Test them on pancreases is... 10-16-2015 Nightly News From Key West with Greg + Wives... 4 MD Wives Coup D'Etat Review: The film grossed $520,942 in all, translating to an average of $130,236, reported Deadline. By comparison, another recent high-profile movie – Denis Villeneuve's Sicario – averaged roughly $67,000 per theater during its opening. Jobs, Boyle's film is due to go into wider distribution on Oct. 23. The premiere marks the end of a troubled road, which at different times saw the movie change its director, lead actors, and even studio on the way to the big screen. One of the few constants has been a script by Aaron Sorkin. A recent revelation was that Jobs' widow, Laurene Powell Jobs, repeatedly attempted to stop the movie's development with the help of supporters. Though based on Walter Isaacson's 2011 biography, current and former Apple executives have noted that the movie deviates from historical accuracy. Steve Wozniak – who acted as a paid consultant on the film – claimed that while some events didn't happen, it succeeded at capturing Jobs' personality. Designer Jony Ive, however, has suggested that it conflicts with his memories.

Coup D'Etat Review: Yale ITS computer center sent a campus-wide notice yesterday evening alerting the student body of computer virus circulating via email. According to ITS's warning, the virus disguises itself as an email with "the seminar" or "Order" in the subject line. Scary stuff – consider yourself warned. Yale Medical School needs to sent to the New York Times MS Virus given to Yale Women by Tim Cook + Elton John. This is a more scary virus than any a Yale woman could get from email. Yet it will not get sent to the New York Times until after the 4 MD Wives Coup D'Etat. F grade from Yale here for this today!
