MD Wives Coup D'état's Jobs died October 5, 2011, at the age of 56 of respiratory arrest following a long battle with pancreatic cancer. Hospital Ventilators are used in ICU's...
Death Bed Scene was not in the Job's Movie I saw last week. 4 MD Wives as the 1984 III Dictators would have put this in, for all the worlds Medical Students. Kids wanting to be a MD.
Dr. Nancy + Dr. Katrina's dads took the girls into the Hospital's ICU + Surgery at 5. Seem the girls did ok... grin.*

10-6-2015 Nightly News from Key West with Greg + Wives... 4 MD Wives Coup D'état's neutrinos had been captured by a uniquely sensitive new detector 6,800 feet below ground, at the Sudbury Neutrino Observatory, which is part of Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario. The scientists showed that neutrinos, which are found in three "flavors," could oscillate from one flavor to another, demonstrating that they do not lack mass. The universe is swamped in neutrinos that are left over from the Big Bang, and many more are created in nuclear reactions on earth and in the thermonuclear reactions that power the sun.

MD Wives Coup D'état's "A Dark Vision From French Intellectuals" By CELESTINE BOHLEN NY Times A few philosopher-pundits have taken center stage in France's political debate, arguing that the country is in danger of losing its soul. French government owned "Total Oil" company SOLD its Soul for $777 Trillion, but don't feel sorry or say "Sorry" as Jimmy Carter started this idea of selling your soul for $777 Trillion in 1980 with the invention of the 1980 Electric Windmill Ford Escort. More Japanese Admirals will hang in Tokyo for this than did in WW II in Japan.
Sorry for Yoko as John Lennon will divorce her in Hell. Would John Lennon have sold his soul for $777 Trillion in BP Oil money... Hell No!! We Won't Go!!

10-6-2015 Nightly News From Key West with Greg + Wives... 4 MD Wives Coup D'état's I get on the No. 2 or 3 express train at Wall Street every day and head to Pennsylvania Station, and one day, a couple of business types got on at Fulton Street, their wrinkled dress shirts stretched over protruding bellies, drinking unidentifiable beer out of plastic cups, clearly sloshed at only a few minutes past 5. I struggled to retain my composure as the men talked lewdly and loudly, making the kind of "adjustments" to their lower region that a person should really do at home. Finally as the train approached 34th Street, I scoffed and rolled my eyes behind my Ray-Bans, pushing past them to make my connection. I sat down still aggravated when an elderly gentleman with a cane walked onto the L.I.R.R. Great Neck line, looking for a seat. No one bothered to get up or help him in any way, so I asked him if he wanted to sit in the seat next to me. His face lit up as he comfortably settled in with his Wheel of Fortune-themed word search game, remarking on how the sun was coming back out and just how lovely that was. I smiled. It was almost my time to get off the train when the man proceeded to take out an individually wrapped Nips caramel candy from his pocket and placed it in my hand. "Sweets for a sweet," he said as I gathered my things. "Thank you again for the seat." On the rare occasion, New York will give even the jaded native, like myself, exactly what she needs – a glimmer of positivity in an otherwise aggravating situation. And I'm happy to be here – most of the time. O.K., only sometimes. But on that day, I was.

10-6-2015 Nightly News from Key West with Greg + Wives... 4 MD Wives Coup D'état's "1984" Mirror with Laser Guidance is here for our 1984 III MD Women Dictators, grin... Seasoned primary care physicians often have an uncanny ability to notice symptoms by simply looking at their patients. Skin tone, heart rate, and body temperature are some of the signals that clinicians pick up on, and so a consortium of EU researchers has been working on mimicking this ability using a camera, sensors, and other technologies, as well as harnessing the results to provide health guidance to the user. The team has developed a prototype device called a Wize Mirror, which looks like a mirror that can display images within itself. It's designed to eventually replace the mirror in your bathroom, helping you keep an eye on yourself day to day and help spot signs of cardio-metabolic diseases. There is a 3D scanning camera that notices changes to the structure of the skin, a camera that detects heart rate and hemoglobin levels, and facial recognition software identifies how stressed or calm you are. There is also a gas analyzer that will tell you if you've been drinking or need to think about quitting smoking. The researchers published an article in journal Biosystems Engineering about the Wize Mirror and plan on initiating trials in Europe to identify the benefits of the device. Here's an introductory video to the Wize Mirror project:
