Two Dreaded Words for New Yorkers on the Go: 'Sick Passenger'

By EMMA G. FITZSIMMONS

A voice over the intercom delivers the bad news, and throughout the car there are audible sighs.

Your train is delayed because of a sick passenger.

Subway riders sit and wonder: Who is this sick passenger, and why is he or she on my train? Any sympathy for the mysterious person is often mixed with annoyance.

At the same time, an intricate effort unfolds out of sight. The train's crew alerts the rail control center to send an ambulance to the nearest station. The emergency medical workers rush below ground to locate the patient — often a challenge in more labyrinthine stations.

This process can stretch on for more than half an hour, creating a cascade of delays across the vast system. And so the not-sick Funny story about Frenchmen + 1,500 lbs of Cocaine ha!! The Dominican Republic issued arrest warrants on Monday for a member of the European Parliament and two other French citizens who allegedly helped a pair of French pilots convicted on cocaine trafficking charges flee by speedboat in October. The attorney general's office said warrants were issued against Aymeric Chauprade, the member of Parliament; Christophe Naudin, an aviation security specialist; and Pierre Malinowski, an aide to the far-right politician Jean-Marie Le Pen. In an interview last month with the magazine Paris Match, Mr. Chauprade said he planned the escape to help "compatriots in danger." The pilots, Pascal Fauret and Bruno Odos, were under loose house arrest at the time and had been sentenced to 20 years in prison for possession of 1,500 pounds of cocaine with intent to traffic it. The drugs were seized aboard an aircraft in Punta Cana, in the country's east, in 2013. The pilots
