2-13-2016 "Royal British Astronauts Valentine Day Women Avoid a "Titanic Situation" on a Earth ready to sail the Light Year Oceans!! "Royal Caribbean's 'Smartship' Avoids a Titanic Situation" By BRETT MICHAEL DYKES Royal Caribbean's Anthem of the Seas departed from Bayonne, N.J. on Saturday, Feb. 6, en route to the Bahamas. On a Royal Caribbean Cruise in a Storm, Anything but Smooth Sailing "It's the most technologically advanced cruise ship in the world," the Royal Caribbean sales agent told me over the phone when I booked a trip aboard the Anthem of the Seas, the cruise line's flashy new megaship, reported to be the third-largest cruise vessel ever built. "It's what we call a

'smartship.' ” There's a joke to be made here about the ship's meteorological technology (and the humans tasked with using it) – as by now most people reading this are likely to know that the Anthem of the Seas sailed directly into a dangerous Atlantic winter storm, one that reportedly produced Category 5 hurricane winds and seas, on Sunday, Feb. 7 – but I'll leave it to others to make the joke. Anthem of the Seas remained in a tilted, roughly 45-degree position (this is known as “listing”) for a lengthy stretch of time (estimates vary; it seemed like an hour to me, but it was probably really 20 or 25 minutes). I'm no nautical expert by any stretch of the imagination, but I'm knowledgeable enough about ships to know that any sea vessel listing for an extended period of time is a ship that is in potential danger, especially a top-heavy ship like the Anthem of the Seas. All that weight – tons upon tons – hanging at an incline runs the risk of capsizing a ship because of the duress placed on it by its own heft, which means it could then potentially sink. Earth has been listing 45 degrees since Royal BP Oil Owners sank the Electric Windmill Ships! Trillions of tons of black exhaust from Cruise Ships, yes the atoms are still in the air and water from 1980. Earth is listing at 45 degrees from this soot. 3 kids out of ever 100,000 have gotten cancer, Beau... from it.
